(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21 .- Sen tor Martin offered ar amendment to the sundry civil bill to-day, providing for an appropriation of $25,000 for the completion of the sea-wall which the govern ment has begun at the upper end of Jamestown Island. It was thought at one time that the wall as it now stands would be sufficient to prevent further erosion of the banks, but it was very plain to all who were with the senators and representatives on the island Saturand representatives on the island Saturia day that the present wall must be extended a great deal if the Island is to be saved from the Incursion of the waters, a Representative Grosvenor was deeply impressed with the reed of further work being done to save the Island, and is expected to lend his help in getting the Item through the House. Senator Martin, and had his attention called to the need of further work being done, but had not realized how greatly it was needed until he was on the Island and saw for himself how the river was steadily eating into the bank. The wall which has been erected has done great good in staying the progress of the waters, but it is not long enough.

The members of the congressional party which wert to Jamestown Saturday are delighted with the trip. Many have told me it was the most pleasant which they ever took. The historical features of the country appealed to them greatly, but the industrial development now in progress on the shores of Hampton Roads impressed them most. Every one of them has something to say of the great ship yard at Newport News, and the visit thither is regarded by all as the chief feature of the trip, except the hour spent on Jamestown Island.

Representative Tawney's advocacy of a navat display exclusively, or with practically no exposition features in the celebration of the tercentenary of the founding of the settlement of Jamestown, does not meet with the general favor of the gentlemen at the head of the enterprise. General Lee, who is the president of the exposition company, said he was convinced that the naval feature would be one of the chief features of the exposition, but that it should not be all. Mr. Tawney is the chairman of the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions, and the deep interest which he has taken and is taking in the Jamestown project has greatly gratified the Virginia delegation. CHAS. G. JURGEN Remember, Your Credit's Good at Jurgens'. 419-'21 E. Broad St., between Fourth and Fifth.

We would also call your especial attention at this time to the "Fortune" Gas Range, and the "Mrs. Rorer," named after this eminent lady writer on culinary and other household subjects. Range is really the Fortune, modified to some extent, at the suggestion of Mrs. Rorer, and the manufacturers and ourselves think it is the best and most complete Gas Range ever put on market. If you don't mind paying a dollar or so more, to get the best, by all means see the "Mrs. Rorer" before purchasing.

ut-of-town customers will oblige us by sending for our catalogue of Furniture and Carpets and Upholstering. We also have special catalogues of Baby Carriages, Go-Carta, Gzs Stoves, Alaska Refrigerators.
